issue 4 - summer 1994

welcome to issue number four. I've gotten a remarkable response for the 'how- to abortion by mail' offer - and i've decided to reprint it here. Plus the rapist of the month, cool record reviews, and interviews with members from yer favorite local bands - mush and the kill city babies. Also, if you were at peabody's for the pavement show and saw me kicking the shit out of a girl, could you get in touch if you found a set of keys? They're mine.

LETTERS!

Dear Asshole,

riot grrrrr! is a really cool movement - and the look is very popular right now I don't know how you think you'll be so popular whan you make fun of it. What are you gonna do when we find you alone on the street and make pull a PB on you? You're not so cool anymore are you?

Dana Youth
xxhopscootch girlsxx

dana - I think you misunderstood me. I am really for the riot grrrrrr! movement. A future of young girls giving each other facials and writing on eachothers stomachs look good to me. Besides, there are few things better than being in bed with a leggy riot girrrrrrrrr! listening to the new slant 6 record. Let's dance mama!

-P.s. for those who don't know, a PB is where riot girrrrrrrrrrrls attack unsuspecting victims and make them listen to the Pat Benetar lp 'get nervous'.

Asshole-

I just got back from a tour of the west coast with my band Jinny and the ultrachicks and we ran into a guy named neil hamburger who said he knew you. The problem is, he gave me genital warts and I wanted him to pay the bill. Could you give me his address?

Neil Hamburgers' real name is chris morgan and, just your luck - he's featured in this issue!

two months ago, I jumped on a greyhound bus and began my voyage of punk life on the road like i've read about in so many 'zines. From what i've read, everyone seemed real nice and you get to meet real cool people. I got on the greyhound at 6am and we headed to sunny california. The first cool thing that happened to me was the nice little girl sitting behind me kept talking about how much she liked her grover lunchbox. It was her favorite thing in the world and she even sang little songs about it. When she and her mom got up to go to the bathroom, her mom wouldn't let her take it. As they headed down the isle, I reached over the seat and grabbed the lunchbox. She was right, it was nice. I slid open my window a little bit more and tossed the box out. We must have been going about 70 because it bounced for a pretty long time. When she came back, she cried and kicked and screamed and woundn't eat. Her mom told the woman next to her that the little girl was on medication and would get pretty ill if she didn't eat. Later when her mom went to the bathroom I told her that I threw it out the window and that she'd never see it again. When I got to san francisco I stayed with a cool band who had a co-op food for the homeless store. Since I didn't have any money they made me a big meal and took me to see grover lunch box.

spitboy or something like that. Afterwards we went to some park and gave homeless people bread. They liked it. After everyone went to sleep, I took all of the money that the co-op had made for the day and a bunch of clothes that were in the living room. They also had a cool mountain bike that I gave away to some guy I saw on the street. I walked back to the greyhound station and waited for the next bus to tucson. While I waited, I saw a crumpled old lunchbox, but it had miss piggy on it.

Next issue - asshole in tucson!

HAIR EYES

poetry

untitled

by Horatio Eubanks

Often I find myself dreaming
Of a young lad upon my knee
Sleeping beside his smiling face
Stroking him, ever so gently...

Often I dream of a man
Who tells me that my love is wrong
But as I gaze at your young, tear stained face,
My love grows so much more strong.

Kill all my fucking relatives for Christmas

Romance In Spring

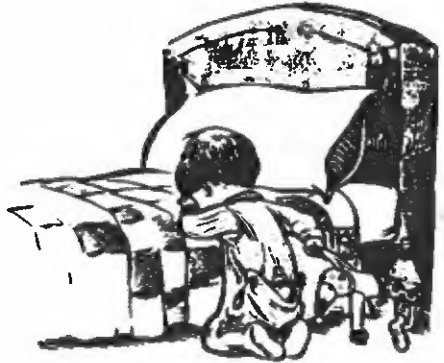

by Ted McMonagle

I watch him from the fifth row
Thirteen dollars is a small price to pay
His muscles always seem to have grown
I'll get his autograph someday
I can't name another band member,
But his music means a lot to me
Henry, oh Henry I love you
And the Rollins Band rocked, indeed.
